

Electrical Apprenticeship Training

To apply for apprenticeship in the Electrical Industry- visit the website <http://www.njatc.org>

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) is always looking for new members. These skilled trade jobs offer good pay and great benefits while you are learning on the job.

JATC stands for Joint Apprentice and Training Committee.

The apprenticeship is a 5-year program that is a combination of classroom training and on-the-job training. You are instructed as to when you are to attend school and you are monitored on the job by a journeyman electrician. All aspects of this program are important for you to be able to complete each level of training and move forward, not only in the classroom but also in income. If you are interested in applying to the apprentice program of IBEW Local #86, please read the information below to find out our minimum requirements and days and times of when we accept applications.
